My darling Ethel

We are just back to billets, so this letter wait for till to-morrow. I have just heard of the Dublin business, and hope my darling that you are all quite safe and will take care to keep away from any part of the town in which a scrap might suddenly start. It is fearful to think of such a thing happening in Ireland, it is dreadful but please God! it is now well in hand. Well my old girl I hope to get a letter from you today, did not get any last night on my return. I am in the pink and hope that you are all the same. I will finish this letter up now dearest and then all being well write you again later on.

With fondest love and kisses my dear girl to yourself & the kids.

Ever your loving

Tommy
