I beg to report that on the 22nd inst. the undermentioned extremists were observed moving about and associating with each other as follows:

went route marching in the direction of Clonliffe. They returned at 10 p.m. and dismissed without further parade. No rifles were carried.

Countess Markievicz visited Mrs. O'Donovan Rossa at the Gresham Hotel between 9 & 10 p.m.

As regards the contemplated demonstration on Sunday next nothing definite can be obtained as to what the promoters intend to do. No instructions, so far, have been issued to the rank and file of the Sinn Fein Volunteers. There are conflicting rumours about having the affair held early in the morning so as to allow those taking part to attend the Gaelic League Oireachtas at Dundalk while others say that there will be a procession formed at Howth Road in the afternoon and march to Bachelors Walk where a public meeting will take place. In either event no disturbance is anticipated; and having regard to the O'Donovan Rossa funeral the Sunday following, the original idea of the ~~Bachelors Walk~~ display may on this account be very much curtailed if not practically abandoned. A Memorial Meeting under the auspices of the Irish Transport Workers' Union is announced for ^{next} Sunday when the Citizen Army with full equipment is to attend at Croydon Park at 6.30 p.m.

Attached is a copy of this week's issue of the Workers Republic which does not appear to contain anything deserving special attention.
